GCE 'O' Level Elective History
For Sec 3/4/5

For the O level History examinations in 2020, 60% of the marks come from Section A, where Source-Based skills are tested. Therefore, it is essential for candidates to be clear on how to tackle questions found in Source-Based Case Studies in a historical context.

For these series of two-hour sessions over the four days, the focus would be on the following skills.

- Inference of sources
- Reliability of sources
- Evaluation of sources
- Tackling Structured-Essay Questions.

Using past years' questions and case studies from the Nazi Germany, rise of Stalinist Russia and the Korean War, step-by-step guidance will be given to the participants on how to recognise such questions and how to tackle such questions. Practices are given and will be marked promptly.
